Sewer diversion work – Ismay Avenue, Homebush

Further to our notification on 3 February 2017, work continues to relocate a number of services in Homebush.

From Tuesday, 30 May 2017, night work will be required to perform sewer work and install a temporary sewer diversion in Allen Street Reserve, Homebush.

To minimise impacts on the local sewer network and comply with Sydney Water requirements, work must be undertaken between 6.00 pm and 6.00 am from Monday to Friday. Once installed, the sewer diversion is expected to be in place for up to one week. A map showing the location of the work is provided overleaf.

This work is expected to take up to four nights to complete, weather permitting, and will involve:

- installation of sewer diversion pumps
- sewer main works
- removal of temporary sewer diversion pumps.

Equipment used throughout the work will include excavators, jack hammers, concrete saws, trucks, light vehicles, lighting equipment and sewer diversion pumps.

Construction vehicles will use Pomeroy Street and Allen Street Reserve to access the work area.

There may be some noise associated with this work, however every effort will be made to minimise the impact of work, including the use of non-tonal reversing beepers on all machinery, turning off equipment on vehicles when not in use and, where possible, directing noisy equipment away from residences.

If you have an enquiry or complaint about this work, please contact toll free 1800 660 248 and ask to speak to a member of the M4 East team or email info@M4East.com.au.
